

BRIAN BARLOW

drummer /percussionist /arranger /producer

Brian was born in Belleville, Ontario, and has spent most of his career in the Toronto recording studios, becoming one of Canada's most recorded musicians. His work in the studio and in concert has included performances with a very diverse group of artists including: Charlie Watts, Tony Bennett, Anne Murray, Alanis Morissette, Diana Krall, The Toronto Symphony Orchestra, and Herbie Hancock (see below)

For fifteen years Brian was the percussionist with the internationally renowned jazz ensemble, Rob McConnell & The Boss Brass. While he was a member of that group they were nominated for six Grammy Awards, winning that prestigious award in 1995.

Every year, for a consecutive 29 years (1975-2004) Brian performed on JUNO AWARD nominated and JUNO AWARD winning recordings in categories including: Country, Jazz, Gospel, Children's Album, R&B/Soul, Indigenous Artist, Instrumental Artist, and Best Classical Album. (With five nominations in both 1994 and 2005)

In 1999, Brian was honoured as 'Percussionist of the Year' at The National Jazz Awards and received nominations as 'Drummer of the Year' in 2006 and 'Arranger of the Year' in 2007.
